SERVICES

Maintaining & Cleaning Your Guitar/Ukulele

Your fingers tend to produce sweat when you play your guitar or ukulele. Prolonged usage on the fretboard can result in the deterioration of the fretboard and wood finish. Residue can become stuck on the surface, leading to more trapping of dust and dirt. How can we avoid this? It's simple; we use Dunlop 65 Lemon Oil. This is the best fretboard cleaner, trusted by millions of guitarists worldwide. Every 4-6 months, apply this oil and clean your guitar or ukulele thoroughly. Your fretboard will be as good as new. And what about the wood? A simple cleaning and polishing will do the trick to make it as shiny and clean as possible.

Maintaining and servicing a large number of instruments can be tedious and tiring, but that's what we're here for.

The Kalimba is rapidly gaining popularity and could be poised to become a staple in classroom learning. Its small and compact design, particularly the Kalimba in C diatonic, enables students to easily learn and play simple tunes that they can master over an 8-week period.

We are delighted to share that we have been receiving numerous orders from schools for our Kalimbas, and we are heartened by the overwhelmingly positive response. Many have praised the instrument for its quality and its ability to create new learning and performance opportunities for students.

The Miles 32/44-keys keyboard is an ideal size for classroom learning. Traditional 61-keys keyboards can be cumbersome to set up due to their large size and numerous cables.

The Miles 32/44-keys keyboard is powered by 6 AA-sized batteries, conveniently accessible from the back. Its compact dimensions (45x21cm) make it suitable for placement on a standard classroom table or on a student's lap while seated on the floor.

The key size is sufficiently wide, ensuring comfortable play, even for adults.

Did You Know?

The Dhol is a large, barrel-shaped drum that is typically played with two sticks, known as dhol sticks. It is commonly used in bhangra music and other forms of Punjabi folk music, as well as in Bollywood film songs. The dhol has a deep, resonant sound that can be heard from a distance, and is often used to provide the rhythm for dance performances.

The Dholak, on the other hand, is a smaller drum that is played with the hands. It has a higher pitch than the dhol, and is often used in devotional music and folk songs from different parts of India. The dholak is also used in some classical music performances, where it is played as an accompanying instrument.
